THE AUTOMOBILE INDUSTRY
has made itself in politics. Mr. Raskob, finance head of the four-billion-dollar General Motors concern, is Democratic National chairman. Henry Ford is vice-president of the engineers committee, organized to work for Hoover.

Raskob says he is out to help Governor Smith "free the country from the curse of prohibition." Ford says he believes that Hoover will build up the Nation and start enterprises that will give well paid work to armies of men. Why not organize a Ford-Raskob debating tour through the Nation? It would draw.

Prof. Nicholas Roerich, traveling in Tibet, discovers, with apparent surprise, much superstition. What did he expect in a miserable country overrun with Lamas, studded with so-called Buddhist convents and monasteries, where tens of thousands live on the superstition of others?

Buddha says you must not kill animals. Animals not wanted are driven to the edge of a hill, forced to fall over and kill themselves, corpses are cut in pieces, thrown to the pigs and birds in open fields; the living roll on the dismembered dead "for good luck."

Lamas count their profits in terms of spirits they pray on their behalf, says Prof. Roerich. They use human bones and "magical" contributions to improve the supernatural attitude. Lamas drive away evil spirits with guns, for cash, but their fewest enemies are the spirits of the dead.

In short they really are superstition. Chinese and Japanese will take them over by and by if they are worth taking.

While stung by the dog and Arctic flying takes their toll of life, careful, well planned flying-entertainment itself as part of the human program.

The twenty-one planes in the Edsel Ford flight reached San Francisco on Saturday, planes of all makes and styles, finishing the first leg in a flight of 6,300 miles to 33 cities and 16 states.

Edsel Ford's first prize will go to the plane carrying the greatest pay load per horse power, in the shortest time. This national air tour, emphasizing safety and efficiency, is a most constructive aviation enterprise.

The venerable Cardinal Lumen of Reims, 86 years old, flew over his cathedral and told friends how beautiful the noble building looked from the sky.

"I should not have risked it years ago," said he. "It might have seemed dignified, everything is different now; one must keep up with the times."

What do our spirits see, leave our bodies? Do they look down on sleeping cities at night, busy farms by day? Do they see the other planets and stars, and the outside universes 100,000,000 miles away? Or do they wake instantly in Heaven? Too bad if they have to miss all the things on the way.

Minut political scientists, gathered at Des Moines, say the country will vanish after a system of small parties, based on religious, economic theories, views on education, labor, etc., will replace the elephant and the don.

It is hard enough for the aviator to keep track of two turns to Page 16, Column 2.

SMITH IS FAR AHEAD IN GREATER BOSTON VOTE

Governor Smith was far in front of Herbert Hoover when the Boston Evening American started its drive on the third week of the presidential swing vote. During the past two weeks some 34,158 persons have voted at the six polling places throughout Boston and Greater Boston in one of the most comprehensive drive votes ever taken by any newspaper. The drive vote is also being taken in other cities throughout the United States where the "front" papers are published.

Stockholm, July 15 (AP)—Swedish officials today were considering what steps could be taken toward a formal release of the Soviet aviator, Chuchnovsky, and four companions as well as four members of Nobile's party who were stranded in the Arctic.

This was announced today by the Soviet relief committee. In addition to the Chuchnovsky group, the Krasin picked up Nobile, a Norwegian, and three Italians from the relief ship, the Zerkow.

carried on all lamp. The wooden stairway burned like tinder.
Dashing through the flames to the upper floor, after she had shrieked to her husband, the mother pushed her children to the window with instructions to follow her in a leap for life.
She was dazed by the heat and when she recovered the upper section of the house was a furnace. The dead children failed to jump.
Meanwhile Starkey shattered a first floor window with his fist and emerged with his two daughters.
The house, situated in the hot skirts of the city, was a total loss before the roar of the fire department could bring aid.
Nearly dozens were scorched and an auto standing in the yard was completely burned. Firemen, securing the ruins, found the bodies of the two boys on the first floor.

North East Land. They laughed at their adventure, and said they had been in no danger.
The Italians picked up by the Krasin are skiers who had set out from the steamer Erasmus to assist Chuchnovsky.
The Krasin is taking Chuchnovsky's airplane to Advent Bay, where it will be repaired. The Krasin will take on fuel there and then proceed to search for Raof Amundsen and his five companions, missing since June 1 when they left Tromsø, Norway, and the Ulfen "bag" party of six.
In his report to the Soviet relief committee, Prof. Samoylovich, in command of the Russian relief expedition, said that the Krasin experienced the greatest difficulty in reaching Chuchnovsky because of the moving icebergs, and that the work of taking the men aboard was extremely hazardous.
Ice Wrecked Italia, Say Newly-Rescued Survivors
Moscow, July 16 (AP)—The wreck of the Italia, as described by the rescued men aboard the Krasin, was a disaster to a correspondent for Tass, the Soviet news agency, was caused by a heavy layer of ice which covered the straits and made maneuvering impossible.
The rescued men told the correspondent that everything went well

Full Inquiry Will Aid Nobile Say Rome Officials

Rome, July 16 (AP)—That there will be a full inquiry into the causes of the disaster to Gen. Umberto Nobile's polar dirigible Italia, is taken for granted in official circles here, where investigation would be to the general's own interest.
The report that Nobile is held on the base ship Citta di Milano virtually a captive of the Italian government is scoffed at here.
Intimations in Russian newspapers, that the leader of the expedition abandoned his men, is treated here as scurrilous.
On the morning of May 25, Bebovsk said, Nobile was in favor of the party leaving the injured Admiral and Cecconi behind in a shelter built from the wreckage of the gondola, and starting out across the ice. Cecconi is the mechanic whose leg was broken in the crash. Nobile's suggestion was opposed by the others. Some one suggested that the three fittest of the group, Zappi, Mariano and Ragni, the radio operator, seek aid alone while the others remained behind with the injured.
Despite the fact that he was seriously injured, Bebovsk said, Mariano bravely volunteered to replace Ragni as one of the three. There was great opposition to the Italian's venturing across the ice because of the conditions, Bebovsk said, but finally he was given his way and left with his two companions.

have been ordered to clear up the mystery of Dr. Finn Malmgren's fate.
His Italian companions left him alive on the ice, but the admiralty announced it had received no confirmation of the Swedish scientist's death. The search was ordered by the admiral because that he might be alive.
An expert on international law said that the law offered no hindrance to a formal inquiry into the Nobile expedition, but that difficulty of a political nature might be encountered. He suggested that Sweden might propose a Norwegian joint of some sort since the Spitsbergen archipelago is under the jurisdiction of Norway.
It was thought by others, however, that such an investigation would be hard to arrange as the jurisdiction of any country could only be vaguely defined. It was pointed out that Dr. Malmgren has been in peril in a sort of "No Man's Land" and thus no country would have a clearly-defined right to command a judicial inquiry.

The vessel, coming from Algeria, went aground in the Estuary near Moulins.
The underwriters were offering a premium of four dollars a barrel to persons retrieving the wine.
The ship was said to be a total loss. The cargo was valued at nearly a million dollars.

hear the doomed man's plea.
Desatnick's message for mercy was conveyed to the Governor through Moses L. Sedar, Jewish chaplain at the prison, who relayed it to Secretary MacDonald.
At the time the Governor's reply was sent by MacDonald to the prison, nothing further had been heard from two men, declared representatives of a Jewish-language newspaper in New York, who called at the prison yesterday and said they had new evidence in the baby-drowning case.
They were advised to submit their evidence to Gov. Fuller today at the State House, but by late afternoon they had not appeared at the Governor's office.
Meanwhile, Desatnick received farewell visits from his father, Samuel Desatnick; his mother, Mrs. Zion Desatnick; and from a younger brother. The doomed man's young wife, mother of an infant born since Desatnick was arrested on the charge of drowning his other infant daughter, was to be his last family visitor before death.
Desatnick, purposely kept in silence in conversation and prayer until after midnight, that he might have a long sleep last night, was up at 7:45 a. m. and breakfasted on

Because she didn't believe in "all the usual fuss and feathers about a wedding," Miss Dorothy Elizabeth Hamnell of Parker st., West Newton, slipped away to Kittery, Me., with James T. Hodnett of Winchester and was married. Then she went home and kept her secret just a week. It became known today because she "just couldn't keep it any longer." She had "threatened" to elope many times, according to her mother, and her mother's reply had been that she would never be forgiven—as Mrs. George E. Hamnell explained today after having extended her motherly forgiveness. "Dorothy always said she wouldn't have any fuss and feathers about her wedding," said Mrs. Hamnell. The wedding took place at the First Congregational Church, Kittery, on July 8. A sister and a brother-in-law of Hodnett, who had been told of the approaching elopement, surprised the couple by motoring to Kittery and being present as witnesses.

WEATHER MADE TO ORDER FOR FORECASTER

This was the first perfect summer day of late season from the Roanoke coast to the Atlantic—and what did the weather men in the job do? Why, they "made" on their own schedule, taking advantage of what probably will be a good run of weather.

Although the mercury scrambled up the tube today, exceeding by five degrees yesterday's high mark at noon, the day was not unseasonably hot, perhaps because the vacillating weathermen saw to it that the humidity was kept in its place.

It was 15 degrees above a half-hour before noon, the mercury having climbed three degrees in half an hour.

Not a drop of rain, and comparatively few heavy clouds, were reported from any section of the country east of the Rockies and the same weather is indicated for several days to come.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Fair tonight and Tuesday; not much change in temperature, moderate southwest to west wind.

Everybody knew what was wrong with me ... but myself

She left me ... then I overheard her whisper "B.O."

JUST the faintest murmur ... but I caught it.

"B.O." ... what could she mean? What was Helen saying about me ... behind my back? How could she had acted lately. How reluctant she had been to accept my invitations to the club parties. And that silly excuse of hers for leaving me on the porch and going inside.

"B.O." ... and suddenly ... like a flash in the dark ... the truth burst upon me, Body Odor!

That explained it all ... the girls dropping me ... my troubles at the office. Body Odor! The truth hurt. But I'm thankful that I did overheard. Body odor isn't a handicap to me now.

So easy to prevent body odor

Many people, both men and women, miss out on popularity and success in life ... because of body odor.

They think they're safe—when actually science says no one is immune from this unpardonable offense. We can't tell how we offend, for our own sense of smell becomes desensitized to familiar odors. But others always know—and criticize us behind our backs.

We can't help perspiring. It's natural.

AL EASY LEADER IN STRAW VOTE OVER HOOVER

Smith received 215 votes. They were won for Smith by 104 of the 114 voters. In 1924, Coolidge got 53 and Davis also registered a 104.

SHOWING POOR

The next ballot box was placed at the junction of Warren and Washington sts., near the Dudley st. transfer station; 159 votes were cast.

Smith received 104 and Hoover 22. Coolidge had 44 credited to him, in 1924, and Davis got 41.

The shift here was Coolidge to Smith, 24, and Davis to Hoover, 2.

The shift at Dudley and Warren sts. was Coolidge to Smith, 37, and Davis to Hoover, 3.

Hoover made the poorest showing of the day at the Roxbury Crossing precinct, where his total vote for the entire period was but 4.

He was completely swamped by Smith voters in the time of 203 votes.

Coolidge got 47 and Davis 71 in the 1924 vote, recorded here.

Smith also took from the Coolidge forces of 1924 44 votes, while Hoover failed to snatch a vote from the Davis column.

At the Uphams Corner station, Smith also rolled up a heavy vote.

Boston Housing American observers reported that at the polling box were many women, and a heavy woman vote was cast. 213 votes were cast here, almost equal to that of the vote of the Common ball box.

SMITH GETS 44

Smith received out of the total 441 votes to 72 votes in favor of the Republican segment. In 1924 the straw ballots stated that they gave 111 votes and Davis 64. Seventy-six of the votes swung from Coolidge of 1924 to Smith.

Hoover again failed to collect a vote from Davis.

Coolidge, 41, Dorchester, registered 175. Smith, as in the other precincts, with 139, having the balance of 34 for Mr. Hoover. In 1924 Coolidge got 44 and Davis 71. Smith carried 27 votes from Coolidge and Hoover failed to get votes that went to Davis four years ago.

Tomorrow, the Presidential campaign will move in the city of Newton for the day. Ballot boxes attended by the women will be seen at Newton Center (Newtonville) and at Newton Highlands, West Newton square, City Hall and Newton Highlands sq., Lincoln and Walnut streets.

SLAYER OF GIRL, 7, MUST DIE IN OHIO CHAIR OCT. 26

Toledo, O., July 16 (AP)—Charles J. Hoppe, 26, must die in the electric chair for the murder of Dorothy Stelagowski, 7, his wife's cousin, whom he killed after he had raped her from her bed May 23. Hoppe also signed an affidavit that he killed Miss Lily Dale Croft, a Toledo school teacher, two years ago. He is to die October 26.

Golfing Vote May Decide Winner in Presidential Race

New York, July 16 (AP)—The golfing vote may swing the next election, in the case of Herbert N. Straus, treasurer of the Republican State Committee.

He has requested 3,600 golf clubs throughout the country to close their courses on election day, on the morning of election day, in the hope that sold voters, with their chief amusement barred, will take the time to go to the polls.

At the last Presidential election it is estimated that approximately 50 per cent of the 60,000,000 eligible voters of this country shirked their responsibility.

REFORMER HIT BY SMITH TO STRIKE BACK

Albany July 15.—Rev. O. R. Miller, denounced by Governor Smith as a "Liar," "parasite" and "Kaiser faker," in connection with William Allen White's attack on Smith's election record, does not intend to let the matter rest there.

He said he would have something more to say about Governor Smith and the nation.

"I am waiting for some affidavits and then I expect to have some more truthful statements for the Governor to deny," the Rev. Miller said.

The Governor took the position that White had a recent speech which he delivered in Kansas, in which he pictured Smith as a friend of the saloon and the liquor traffic, on information furnished by the Rev. Miller. This was denied, however, by White.

The Governor indicated he did not intend to engage in any long distance debate as to whether he voted for or against the saloon 29 years ago when he was a member of the New York Legislature.

"I have nothing more to say about it," he said.

In the "Reformer Bulletin," which he publishes as superintendent of the New York State League, the Rev. Miller has taken occasion many times in the past to sharply criticize Governor Smith. He also has repudiated many times the Governor's legislative record, and he always has condemned the Governor for his stand on prohibition.

It had been understood that John J. Rush, chairman of the Democratic national committee, would come to Albany this week to confer with Smith on his campaign plans, but the Governor said he did not expect to see the national chairman this week.

So great has become the volume of mail which is daily pouring into the executive mansion since the Governor was nominated, that today he gave orders that from now on all of it is to be sent to the executive chamber.

SMASHES RAIL AT LOUVAIN LIBRARY

Louvain Belgium, July 16 (AP)—The unscrupulous balustrade of the Louvain University erected when the inscription to be placed on the library became a matter of heated controversy was demolished today.

An unidentified man with a hammer destroyed the balustrade which had been placed under the supervision of the rector of the university, Minister Leduc.

The man with the hammer smashed the balustrade after the rector had been informed that the inscription to be placed on the library had been destroyed by the balustrade.

Police immediately arrested the man in charge of building operations.

Whitney Warren, architect of the library, had been insistent in having placed on the balustrade a Latin inscription translated as:

"Destroyed by Teutonic fury, restored by American generosity."

The rector had opposed this and shortly before the destruction of the building made public a cablegram from Herbert Hoover, as chairman of the commission for relief in Belgium, which contributed a large part of the funds.

He was sentenced to three months in the House of Correction in District court today.

Opens Campaign

Two questions are constantly being asked of persons in authority. The first is "Who has a legal right to drive an automobile without a license?" and the other is "Who is responsible for violations of law?"

The answer to the first question is—any unlicensed person. The answer to the second question is—any unlicensed person.

For instance, Smith has a license and is operating his car with Jones riding with him. Jones has a license too. Smith is held up by a policeman for violating a law and both go to the station but discover the left at home.

NEGATIVE ANSWER

Can he legally be operating on the license of Jones? The answer is "No." Smith has a license but does not have it with him. He is not an unlicensed person and therefore cannot operate on Jones' license. Smith is therefore guilty of operating without having his license on his person.

In the interpretation of this law in this manner is very important because it determines the question. Under our law a person with a license is accompanying an unlicensed person who is operating a car and the operator violates any law, not only can the operator be prosecuted but so also can the holder of the license.

To illustrate, Smith has no license to drive. He gets drunk and takes Jones along. Jones has a license. Smith, while driving, hits and kills a person. Then drives away from the scene of the accident without making his identity known. What offense is Smith guilty of and how about Jones?

Many Ways to Serve

WHEN you are wondering what to have for a delicious salad, an unusual entree or a tempting new dish for luncheon or dinner, remember, crab meat is the queen of seafoods, and especially adapted to summer cookery.

In order that the world's finest crab meat may have a place on your pantry shelf, groups of study fishermen operating in specially constructed vessels, catch their way along lobster in the shadow of the Polar circle and brave the dangers of the frigid sea, for from the deep turquoise waters of the Northern Pacific Ocean come the very best crab meat.

As soon as the crab is caught, the finest meat is carefully selected and packed by the most scientific methods. It is always preserved in its own juice, and is never frozen or in any other way damaged.

For the lunch that is carried to school, to work or to a picnic, crab meat, furnished in a tasty and delicious filling or a salad that will long be remembered.

Crab meat is delicious as an appetizer at the beginning of a meal, in soup or as the main course, combined with eggs or in many other ways. Crab meat is a versatile food that can be used in many ways.

Both are GUILTY

Both Smith and Jones may be found guilty of operating a car without a license, if they are caught going away from the scene of an accident without divulging identity and operating a car that the lives and safety of the public might be endangered. The penalty for each offense is a fine and heavy jail sentence.

It is of the utmost importance, therefore, for every licensed operator accompanying an unlicensed person to watch and see that no laws are violated. It is just as important as the operator.

In the interpretation of this law, it is held that if Smith is drunk and driving, who Jones is sober, both may be found guilty of operating under the influence of liquor.
